LETTERS

Dear Editor,
I won the Fantasy and War Games checker contest on Oct. 23 at our third meeting and everyone there applauded! Why wasn't I selected as a Super Senior?

Wally the Wimp

Dear Editor,
My name is Tammy Wilzonschoski, Whey can't you spell my name right?

Tammy Wilzonschoski

Dear Editor,
I did not hear the morning announcements for the last week and I'm too cool to notice posters. But I did see Mrs. Russakov three times and she never told me to go to the Gold Media Center to have my picture taken. Is it too late to get into this year's book?

A Foggy Freshman

Dear Editor,
I have told my beautiful perfect child that she was special since the day she was born. I do not understand why she cannot pick up her yearbook early, before everyone else. She needed it to show her best friend, and that rotten yearbook adviser would not give her the book early. My DARLING has been so upset by not having her way, that it will take a years worth of visits to the family psychologist to get her confidence back. I plan to sue the school and we are buying the yearbook plant so she will have the first book off the presses next year.

An Irate Parent of a Special Child

Dear Editor,
When are you going to have someone in the yearbook that we can all look up to. Someone that we like. How about Boy George or Willie Nelson? Get with the times or I'll spend my $20.00 on something more important like a day at Stars Hall of Fame.

A "WITH" it student

Dear Editor,
I've pierced my ears each 15 times, had my haircut mohawk style, dyed it bright pink and your photographer still hasn't taken my photo. What's wrong, am I just another pretty face?

Punk Lives

Dear Editor,
Could you please put more color photographs of Mr. D. Roberts in your book next year. Maybe a photo of him in shorts playing volleyball or telling jokes to Key Club would be nice.

A D.R. Fan

Dear Editor,
My parents must be Communist, they won't let me get M.T.V. I even offered to pay for it myself. But they say NO, NO, No. All my friends watch and talk about the videos all the time. Life is not fair, I spend all my time at the mall at Video Concepts watching their videos and I'm failing all my classes.

I WANT MY M.T.V.!!!!

Dear Editor,
My locker smells like a fish market! I have had it steamed cleaned twice and I have put up half a dozen stick-ups and the awful smell just won't go away! My locker partner says it's my gym clothes, but I know it's his tuna and onion sandwiches on garlic bread. Besides it's not my P.E. clothes, I take them home every month and clean them.

Brute

Dear Darling Editor,
I spend enumerable hours each morning primping myself for the day. I can't understand why a color spread in the yearbook has not been devoted to me and my gorgeous face and beautiful body. I know if this was done, your yearbook staffers would sell so-o-o many more books. I know it's too late this year, but please consider it for next year.

Love ya'll to death.
The Bod

P.S. I'm also available for the cover at a nominal fee.

Dear Editor,
Why is it that only Seniors and Faculty members can drive to school? This is unfair to Juniors. We are taking this to court, my rights have been violated and I am upset. Why not make the teachers walk to school, they need the exercise any way. What kind of school is this?

Ridin the Bus
But not for long.

Dear Editor,
My twin sons have an extraordinary talent that should be covered in the yearbook this year. They are members of Brain Bowls Inc. They have purchased old bowling bowls and repainted them in psychodellic colors as brains with the persons very own I.Q. on them. These can only be purchased by people in the gifted program who enjoy bowling on Sat. night to relax after a week of heavy duty brain duty. This is a new business and any coverage you can give it would make the boys so happy. Brain Bowl Members are known to be such trend setters, so get with it.

Mom, I.Q. 173

Dear Editor,
I mean like it's so dogmatic, I mean why don't we have more slam dances? Like they're so cool. I mean we show our spirit by dyeing our hair Red, White, and Blue. When are you going to see our school spirit. Like we painted "PUNK LIVES AT BRANTLEY" on the walls with spray glitter paint right before the big Lake Mary game, thanks to us we won that night. We were like just showing how much we care.

So don't be so dogmatic about punk!
We have feelings too ya know.
Hardcore Harry

Dear Editor,
My next door neighbors niece came into town the day before Prom, and we thought it would be nice for Junior to take her. We went right to the mall and purchased a tux and a gown, only to find the PROM was sold out Friday morning. It is my opinion with all the money Brantley has, you could have rented the QE II so everyone could go.

A very upset mother of a very upset child and upset neighbors niece.

OUR GIRL ALIX

It's a proud year for Lake Brantley Alumni. Alix Coulter, a 1981 graduate has excelled to the top of her field at Harvard. Although this sounds like the field of medicine or law, it is truly the field of football. This year Alix revolutionized intramural sports and joined the Lowell House Football team. Our staff spoke with Alix recently and we asked her WHY. ALIX WHY? Alix said, "I don't know, or I thought it would be fun! But does it really require an explanation? I mean picture this scenairo: fifteen men in good physical condition, one woman, me, and a whole lot of physical contact. Need I say more?"

Proud parents Tom and Judy Milwee show off their new baby girl Penny Elizabeth. Featured on channel 9's segment Wednesday's Child, Pen won their hearts by wearing polo diapers. "We always wanted to adopt, but no child was ever quite good enough for us." A formal baby shower will be held at Duff's. ▼

PRACTICAL JOKE GONE AFOUL

Tragedy strikes at Lake Brantley High School. While practicing at his specialty in track and field, high jumping, Mark Napier fell victim to a practical joke. Coach Charlie Harris, a leader in Manly Excellence, forgot to have his class set up the mats. At the same time Mark forgot his contact lens and never noticed the mats missing and JUMPED. Please send donations to Mark in care of Charlie. ▲

Our paparazzi caught this group photo of some of the Bryn Alan Photographers at their latest fiesta. It is said the theme of this latest party was Brantley's Last Deadline. All in fun photographers Harvey Bell, Donald D, and Chris Chaston were heard to have said, "We really like the Lake Brantley Staff a lot. They really are fun people and good looking too." ▼

STARS

Ever since his early days as lead singer of the Jackson Five, Michael Jackson has placed a tremendous influence on popular music. This year he broke all records by having his "Thriller" album sell over 30 million copies and contain six hit songs. His video also took the industry by storm. He won 8 awards at the American Music Awards in 1984. Michael Jackson won Orlando's heart as he spent his vacation at the Hotel Royal Plaza when he dedicated his new personalized suite. Throughout his stay, there were many sightings by Brantley students at the mall and Walt Disney World.

When we went to the Adam Ant concert in St. Petersburg we discovered the tour bus in front of the hotel that we were staying at. We introduced ourselves to the band and Adam Ant in the lobby, and soon became close friends. The concert was fantastic and we left early during the last song to get back to the hotel. We changed clothes and hung out in the elevator, after all everyone had to use it. Through this strategy we got invited to a party and stayed up all night. The band left on the bus around 4:30 in the morning. That morning we were sitting in the lobby getting ready to leave, when Adam came over to us and asked if we had a car and could take him to breakfast. We willingly agreed and took him to the Corner Café of the Hotel Ponce de Leon. We talked about many things and he bought us breakfast. We were all very impressed with him and then our fantasy ended.

BRANTLEY SPIRIT ON THE BEAT

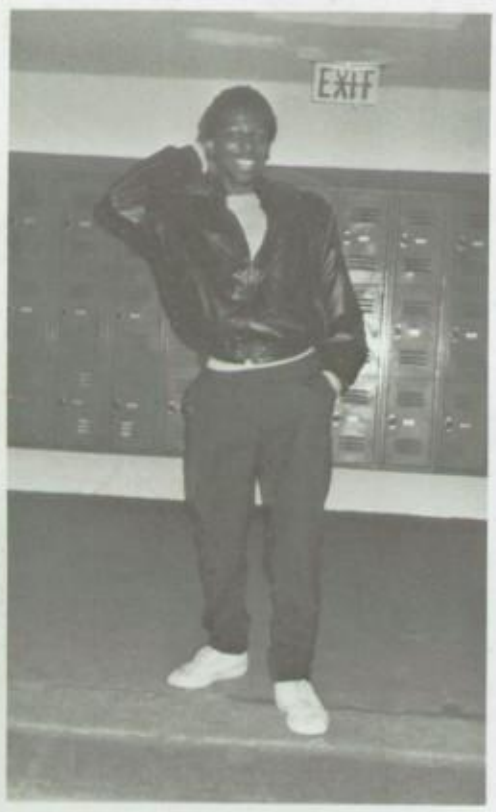
TOURING

On July 23 NICK will be seen on MTV with his group Fuzz. This band has started a new fad by giving wild hair cuts as they perform on stage. You're never sure what style will come out of each performance. That's the fun of it. When the lights went out at Brant on Feb. 17 most of the students just went on with their learning. But when the lights came on these two students were discovered in the Science Hall. ■

SCREENINGS ETC.

Everyone is asking, "Where's the Beef?" Students have been overheard on the food lines at Brant asking the same thing. We just aren't sure why this is a rage now? Students have been asking this question for years. We can't even find those big fluffy buns they keep talking about. ■

News of Cabbage Patch massacre reached the free world today. Lake Brantley High School was devastated by the discovery of their little mascot decapitated by a food supply truck. Though reported as an accident, underworld Mafia connections are suspected. Services will be held in the Child Care wing of L.B.H.S. The cabbage's mother was overcome with grief, "I waited in line in front of Zayres for 10 hours, fought my way through the mob, had to bite, kick and claw to get her and it all ended like this, I'll never get another just like her." Senior Class officers put on masks and went out into the halls to find volunteers to help with this years Prom. Those chosen for this great honor will be lucky enough to clean up after the Prom and the mess made by the Seniors. We understand there is a list in guidance of Freshmen who can't wait for this honor. Parents of children who live in Sweetwater have been known to give their darlings a 280Z if they are picked for this event. Rumors have been heard that one parent has offered to buy the school new band uniforms if his son is chosen in 86 and free dental care for the entire faculty. Mind you that is just a rumor. ■



Winner of the M.J. look alike contest is found here walking down the steps into the commons. If the Mystery person will contact this office we have some prizes for him. Contest ends 4-24-82. ■

Our roving photographer caught part of this years action on film. See how happy this student is. He just can't wait to decorate the dance hall and put this honor on his college applications. "This makes my getting into Harvard a shoo in." ■

RADIO ACTIVE

In the beginning there was Heaven and Earth. But Earth was without sound because radios were not allowed in the classrooms at L.B.H.S. Then along came a guy with a radio and he turned our students into monsters. Mothers please protect your young children, take away their radios before they too become radio active. Call the school and have your child deprogramed. ■

SPECIAL THANK YOUS

The 1984 edition of Patriots Pride was published by Delmar with the guidance of Jim Hunter and Missy Green. This book would never have been completed without the help of many special people in our time of need. We give our special thanks to Scott Ball who spent hours after school taking photos and working in the dark room. To Tina Richards and the girls in Mrs. Sallys class we owe our life for typing all these pages. To Vickie and Kevin Carpenger we thank you for helping every year with our party. To all the guys at Bryn Alan that did a super job of taking photos when we needed them. The quality of their work can be seen throughout this book. Thank you to Q102 and Peaches for the help with the information and in putting on the party. To Panama Jack for the great price on the shirts. To Burger King for feeding us. Park Ave. Bridal for the use of the gown on Kim and to Connie from On Stage for doing her hair. Walt Disney for the M.J. photos. A very special thanks to all the people who advertised in this years book and made it all possible.

THANK YOU.!

Patrick Keeper

Life goes on as we cherish the memories of Patrick John Keeper. He was a wonderful person. He knew how to cheer someone up when you're feeling down. He had the cutest dimples anybody could ever have. His brother Robert says he was the best brother anybody could ever have. You've got to be strong and remember all the good times you've had together. Remember the future not the past.

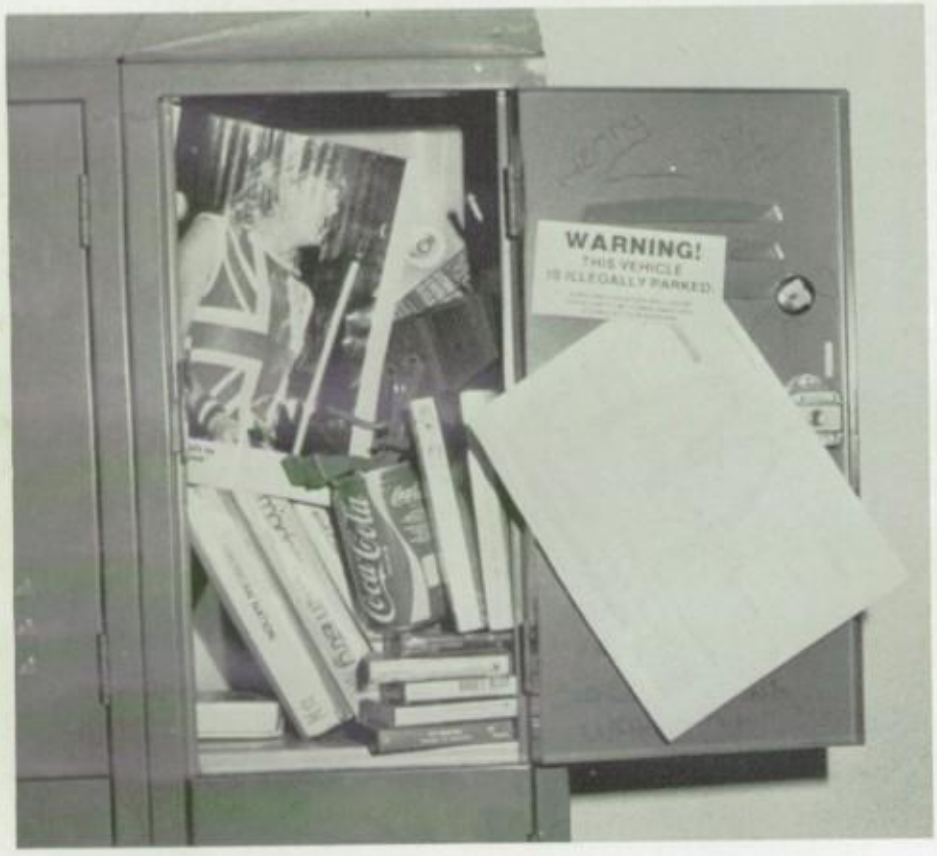
BEHIND CLOSED LOCKERS

A freshman's locker can be identified right away by the map of the school posted inside the door along with the student's schedule. It also has every item sold to raise funds: pom-poms, M&M's, ribbons, bumper stickers and more.

There is no doubt that this locker is used by a sophomore girl. This is evident by the "Teen" and "Seventeen" magazines. How could we forget the perfume, pantyhose, and hairbrush. Last but not least, the gorgeous pinups of the guy!!



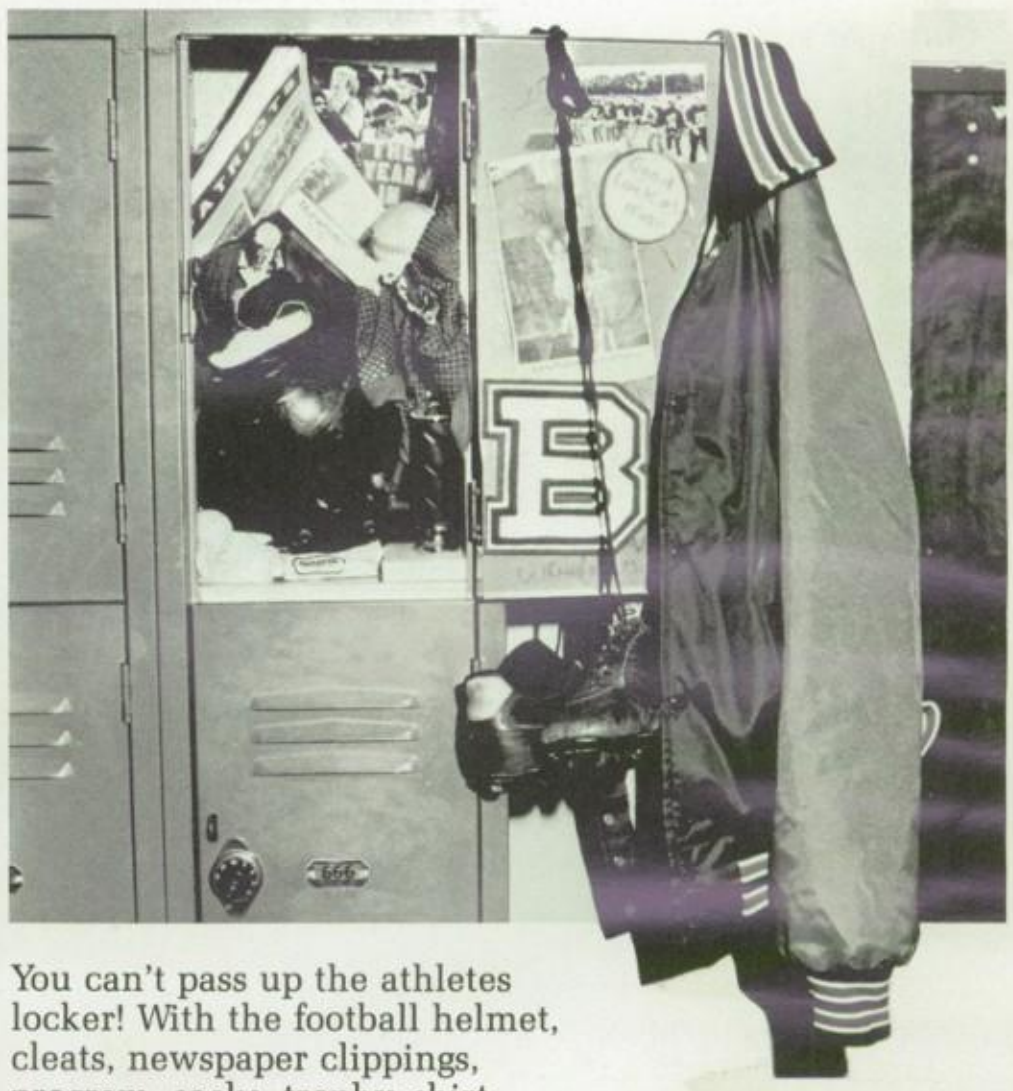
Job applications, parking stickers, American History books, cassette tapes, "Huckleberry Finn", and "30 Days to a Better Vocabulary" are just a few of the things you'll find in a junior's locker.

Who else's locker would have an off-campus pass, Rax cup, toilet paper, senior class picture, keys, license plate, Walkman, and the like? Only a Senior's locker!!

With calculator, Honor Society certificate, Calculus book, Honor Roll, A.P. Physics book, bow tie, and application for Princeton, this is unquestionably the locker of an intellectual.

If you see a rebel flag, an Alabama tape, cowboy boots, K92 FM bumper sticker, Skoal can, or a bandana sticking out, then it's sure to be a Redneck's locker.

Well, if the vans, glitter, hightops, safety pins, magazine, bandanas, sunglasses, pinups, and spiked heels don't give this one away, the chains, whips, and black lipstick will! it's a punker's locker!!



You can't pass up the athletes locker! With the football helmet, cleats, newspaper clippings, program, socks, trophy, shirt, shorts, letter, and Desenex, it's obvious!
